- 1.5. The intake air temperature will be measured by placing a temperature probe into the aperture where the air is drawn into the intake air filter housing. These will be used to correct the Rear Wheel kW figure to 'standard'.
- 1.6. Prior to the test being run, the following will apply:
 - 1.6.1. The engine will be run for 15 minutes, to ensure it is to 'normal working temperature', determined either by the vehicle's own temperature gauge or a separate temperature probe.
 - 1.6.2. For at least 10 minutes of this 'warming procedure', the vehicle will be 'driven' on the dyno to warm the transmission.
- 1.7. The engine power test results will be measured in Kilowatt.
- 1.8. The engine will be tested to a speed at least equal to that at which the maximum power is stated by Porsche as being produced. If at this speed, power has not 'peaked', the engine speed will be increased until such speed as the power starts to reduce, i.e., it has obviously 'peaked'.
- 1.9. Power test runs will be conducted with the engine cover open for front engine models and closed for rear engine cars.
- 1.10. Power test runs will be carried out in the transmission gear, which is closest to direct drive, or 1:1 ratio.
- 1.11. Two power test runs will be carried out, with 10 minutes between each test. During this 10 minute 'rest', any cooling fans will be switched off to avoid inappropriate or uneven cooling of engine components.
- 1.12. The highest power figure measured from the two test runs, will be recorded as the maximum power produced. In the event that the measured power exceeds the maximum allowed within the championship regulations (see figures listed in Appendix 1), the highest of the two test runs will be that which is reported.
- 1.13. The procedures stated above will be used to determine the engine power for any given model. The data will be calculated in accordance with DIN standard 70020.
- 1.14. Any competitor wishing to check the power output of thier car, is advised to have the car checked on the nominated dyno, using the procedures outlined above.
